GRAVE ERROR

Mourners told to come back the following day because of blunder by cemetery staff

A GRIEVING daughter was left "utterly devastated" when her mother's funeral was postponed because bungling cemetery staff forgot to dig the grave.

Shocked Diana Wall (53) and other family members were told just minutes before the service was due to start that Ida Godfrey's funeral would have to be postponed as a result of the blunder.

"Words cannot describe how I felt at that moment," she told the Star. "On top of all the grief the family had already experienced at losing a dear relative, we then had to deal with even more upset."

Mrs Wall had travelled down from her home in Stratford-upon-Avon last Tuesday to attend the service, which was scheduled to take place at the council-run Parndon Wood Cemetery at 2pm.

EXCLUSIVE by CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

But when they arrived at the cemetery it soon became clear that staff were not prepared and told them the funeral would have to take place the following morning.

It left Mrs Wall and her husband Robin having to find last-minute hotel accommodation for themselves and daughters Nicola (16) and Alexandra (13).

"What hurts me most is that I can never put it right," said Mrs Wall. "My mother's funeral was completely ruined and I never even received so much as an apology from those responsible."

Mrs Godfrey was living at Sherwood House in Bush Fair, Harlow, when she died. She was 83.

Gary Neill, managing director of funeral firm Daniel Robinson & Sons which organised the burial, laid the blame for the mistake squarely on Harlow Council.

"This incident has caused a huge amount of grief for the family concerned," he said. "Unfortunately this is not the first time this kind of thing has happened at the cemetery."

"The service provided at Parndon Wood falls far short of our expectations, and despite our efforts in lobbying the cemetery to improve its standards, nothing seems to have happened yet."

Harlow Council has launched an urgent investigation into the incident.

"We did not discover that the grave had not been prepared until the time of the funeral and an urgent investigation is currently taking place to establish why," said a spokesman.

"We sincerely apologise to the family for any distress caused by this error, which is not in keeping with the high standards of service that we aspire to."

Brothers deny causing death of boatman in drunken brawl

TWO brothers killed a senior Thames pleasure boat captain during a drunken fight, the Old Bailey heard on Monday.

Christopher Liddard (23), of Challinor, Harlow, and Andrew Liddard (28), from Hoddesdon, caused Michael Reed to suffer a fatal heart attack after the scuffle on Tower Bridge Pier, it is alleged.

Mr Reed (67), second-in-command of The Millennium Of Peace, collapsed within minutes of being punched in the face. One holidaymaker filmed the melee as Andrew Liddard shouted: "I'll murder you, I'll kill you" while being restrained.

Both men deny charges of manslaughter. Andrew Liddard admits affray.

The court heard that father-of-three Mr Reed, from Barking, was the longest serving member of the pleasure boat community. He had suffered heart problems since 2001 but appeared fit and well on June 2, 2007 - the day he died.

The brothers had spent the afternoon drinking after visiting an art exhibition by a school friend. At about 8pm they went to buy tickets for the pleasure boat.

Prosecutor Mark Dennis said: "They had clearly drunk to excess. The language used was vulgar, crude and offensive to others. The passengers were tourists, a mixture of adults and children wanting to enjoy themselves. The

Danny's gone to the dogs for new film role

THE movies came to town on Wednesday as spectators at Harlow Stadium got a sneak peak at the shooting of a new gangster film.

British actor Danny Dyer, who has appeared in Layer Cake, Human Traffic and Severance, was the star attraction in Dead Man Running, which also features Curtis Jackson, aka 50 Cent.

Sam Rose, of The Hides, Harlow, was at the stadium as filming took place and said: "It was quite strange to see all these stars you see on TV at your local dog track. They were shooting down at the front; Danny was down there and they came upstairs at one point, but we were quite far away so we couldn't see much. There were lots of extras behind them in the crowd."

The scene was originally to be shot at Walthamstow's dog track, but due to its recent closure Harlow was chosen as an alternative location.

Dyer said the film is based around a character who is in trouble and on the run from a real gangster to whom he owes money.

"He's going to get ironed out if he doesn't raise the funds so it's basically about a dead man running, which is him, and I play his sidekick who's trying to get him out of trouble."

Dead Man Running is due to be released in late 2009.

Security review after man is trapped in lift

Sports stars at children's bash

CHILDREN with special needs were rewarded for their sporting achievements at a star-studded lunch hosted by former world boxing champion Frank Bruno.

Hundreds of youngsters and their helpers from across the region were treated to the slap-up feast courtesy of the Presidents Sporting Club at North Weald Airfield on Tuesday.

They had the chance to rub shoulders with some of Britain's finest sporting heroes including Olympic silver medal rowing cox Acer Nethercott.

After lunch the celebrity guests presented awards to 17 children who have strived to make significant achievements in the sporting arena.

Sporting club chairman Mike Jackson said: "It's not about elitism, it's about putting in effort and endeavour."

There then followed an afternoon of entertainment which included a visit from Father Christmas.

A UNIT for people with mental health problems has reviewed procedures to search for missing patients after a vulnerable man was trapped in a lift for more than 24 hours.

The Derwent Centre, in Hamstel Road, has changed its elevator maintenance arrangements and ensured lift telephones and alarm systems are now linked directly to the switchboard at neighbouring Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The incident was revealed by the Star after the man – who was supposed to be getting one-to-one care – was found by staff shortly before 11pm on October 29.

Although he was unharmed and fully assessed by medical staff following his ordeal, he had been trapped without food or water for more than a day.

Stephen Cook, North Essex

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

Partnership NHS Foundation Trust associate director for Harlow, said: "I would like to take this opportunity to reassure local people that we have taken this very seriously and taken steps to ensure this type of incident doesn't happen again."

When asked about patient observation and risk assessment at the centre – from where 10 patients have absconded during the past year – Mr Cook outlined typical staff procedures.

"As with all hospital patients they have maximum choice over their treatment and length of stay and may choose to leave the ward from time to time, providing they check with staff first and it is line with their care and treatment."

"Risk assessment is a daily and ongoing process as part of our care and treatment. Provision of leave is assessed by a multi-disciplinary team of staff in agreement with the patient and their carers or family."

Witnesses sought to post office raid

TWO men burst into High Wych post office on Sunday and demanded the keys to the safe before ransacking the till.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the raid at 7.40am at the post office branch in High Wych Lane.

The pair entered via a rear entrance and looted the till after being told the safe keys were not there. They fled in a small white van with a cage on the back.

Both men are described as white, aged 18-24, slim built and wearing dark clothes with scarves covering their lower faces. One was about 1.77m (5ft 10in) tall and the other slightly shorter.

St Clare launches new care service

LAUNCH TIME:

FOR almost two decades St Clare Hospice has been providing care for people with life-limiting illnesses such as cancer and motor neuron disease.

Many of those who use the day care services offered by the Hastingwood centre will see a nurse or doctor, chat over a coffee with people with similar illnesses and enjoy a tasty lunch.

But now things have taken a huge step forward with the start of its new therapy service offering patients a range of homeopathic treatments including yoga and reiki. It is the biggest development since the opening of the hospice's in-patient unit nearly a decade ago.

There are therapy suites, a consultation area and a general lounge in which people can relax and unwind. The complementary therapies on offer have been proven to help treat the symptoms of severe illnesses and are already used in other areas in the country to good effect.

Yesterday (Wednesday) leading members of local health service providers were invited to the official launch of the service during which they were shown the new therapy rooms and met the team.

Chief executive Richard Cowie told them: "It's because of the generosity of our local community of West Essex and the neighbouring East Herts border that has enabled us to develop and launch this new exciting step forward for local care."

"That care isn't just about the last couple of days, it's about being there for patients much earlier so we can help them at every step of their journey."

Tanya Curry, St Clare's director of patient care, said: "Day therapy will offer a vibrant yet relaxing and supportive service where the clinical team will be working closely with patients and their families providing therapeutic, creative and social care to help promote quality and independence."

Giles Wright, head of communications, added: "The environment where this new service will be happening each week isn't what you might expect.

"It's relaxing and modern looking with a wow factor! There is a lounge area where patients can enjoy morning coffee and a chat, an area for arts and crafts and a large dining table where they patients can have lunch. The therapy rooms are more like the ones you would find in a hotel spa. "We have also designed specific programmes that give people the chance to access the service for short periods of time to either gain a wealth of information and support or to be pampered and have their spirits lifted!"

"This isn't just restricted to patients but available to those caring for them too. Our hospice isn't just about coming to stay as an in-patient or even about coming for a whole day. We are now running group sessions and out-patient appointments."

It is hoped the new service will see more people than ever make use of the out-patient facilities.

"The hospice is often seen as a scary or depressing place, the last place you would expect to spend an enjoyable day," said Mr Wright. "But once patients come to us they enjoy the laughter and can't wait to come back again the following week. "This exciting development is expected to enable our hospice to reach more people than ever before and provide new ways of caring."

Award for town's drug service chief

HARLOW'S Alcohol Drug Action Service manager Philomena Lawrence had plenty to smile about after being named East of England Drug Worker of the Year.

She won the title in the The Tackling Drugs Changing Lives Awards which recognise and celebrate those unsung heroes who go over and above the call of duty in tackling drug misuse.

Philomena, pictured above, who was one of 10 regional winners whittled down from over 360 nominations, was recognised for her holistic approach to helping users build up their self esteem and self worth.

"I am honoured and delighted to receive this accolade," she said. "I hope the award will help put the work done at ADAS on the map; we have a fantastic team here full of drive and enthusiasm and everyone is totally committed to our clients."

Philomena is now in the running to be crowned one of two national winners who will be announced on Wednesday. Each will receive £10,000 for their organisation to spend on prevention or treatment of drug misuse.

Taking a breath

PEOPLE with long-term respiratory conditions can attend a six-week pulmonary rehabilitation course at St Margaret's Hospital in Epping.

The course, which is recommended in the NICE guidelines and comprises a two-hour session on Wednesday and Friday afternoons, improves fitness and confidence in those taking part. Dorothy Millington, who took part in the first course which has just finished, said: "The group bonded well together. We started every session with seated warming up exercises, moving all parts of our body and really learning to breathe properly through the diaphragm."

GPs in the Epping Forest area can refer patients for the next course which starts in January.

Christmas cheer

THE Salvation Army is doing its bit to make sure people do not spend Christmas Day alone by holding a morning worship followed by lunch at its centre in Tendring Road, Harlow.

Transport can be arranged for those unable to make their own way there. Bookings need to be taken in advance for catering purposes. For more information call (01279) 426196 or 441581.

Funding windfall

TWO Harlow projects have been awarded Essex Community Foundation grassroots grants.

Harlow Team Activity Group has been given £4,250 to run health and support meetings for people recovering after detoxification from alcohol and substance misuse.

And the Livewire Trust was handed £2,900 to run a Christmas theatre challenge for young people in Harlow.

Ambulance service in emergency calls plea

AMBULANCE chiefs have warned people they could put lives at risk if they misuse the emergency 999 number this winter.

The East of England Ambulance Service has appealed to the public only to use the number in life-threatening situations or when there is a serious emergency.

The move comes after operations staff reported a rise in non-emergency cases coming through the emergency call room. Spokesman Neil Storey said: "In October, we attended 6,446 calls where the patient was cared for at home and not taken to hospital. This was about 600 calls more than September and an increase of more than 800 calls compared to the same time last year.

"We don't for one moment want to put off people with genuine emergencies from calling us but, with calls seemingly on a never-ending upward curve, we need people to think about whether they really need an ambulance before making the call.

"This is particularly relevant over the winter."

Survey will seek to gauge fuel poverty

ENERGY surveys are to be conducted on Harlow homes as part of a national strategy to gauge fuel poverty.

Selected households will be sent questionnaires in the next few days and the feedback will be used to draw up a fuel poverty map, allowing specific energy advice to be given to properties at risk of being energy inefficient.

Harlow Council is one of 35 local authorities in the region participating in the annual Department of Energy and Climate Change survey.

Environment and community committee chairman Eddie Johnson said: "It is important that we carry out this survey and we ask all householders, no matter whether you live in your own property or rent from someone else, to complete the form that you will receive in the next few days."

Surgery to be built on playground

A SECOND state-of-the-art health centre is to be built in Harlow in a move which has been welcomed by the local community and GPs alike.

Outline permission for the relocation of the Osler House Health Centre to new premises on the site of Carters Mead children's playground was granted by members of Harlow Council's planning committee on Tuesday.

The expanded, modernised facilities are expected to enable the surgery to take on a further 1,500 patients. But the finer details of the project – including the predicted cost – were not disclosed as the plan is still in its infancy.

Dr Rory McRea, lead GP at the surgery, told the meeting: "Osler House has struggled for many, many years and one of the reasons is that people in the Potter Street area do carry a burden of illness.

"We desperately need more space and more modern facilities, which is why I'm so pleased that NHS West Essex and local residents have put so much effort into working together on this application."

As well as a new health centre, a new children's playground comprising play equipment and a five-a-side football pitch

moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

will be built on open space in nearby Larkwood, while new facilities to replace the existing Potter Street Community Centre and six residential flats will also be constructed alongside the new health centre.

The move comes just one week after the same committee granted outline planning permission for Lister House medical centre to be relocated to a protected green wedge site off Abercrombie Way.

But while last week's decision was described by one councillor as setting a "dangerous precedent" for development on protected land, plans for Osler House's relocation were met with unanimous praise by members.

Jean Clark (Labour) said: "I know that locally people have been working very closely with the surgery to promote these plans and it's very encouraging to see they have been listened to."

Committee chairman Mike Garnett (Conservative) added: "It's clear that this is something the community really wants and really needs and I think overall it's a very, very worthwhile project."

Housing solution

SIR, With regard to the housing situation in Harlow and, no doubt, many areas, I would like to voice my opinion as to a possible easing of the situation. My husband I, both approaching retirement, moved into a one-bed flat three years ago. After downsizing into a sheltered complex, we have never been more content with our accommodation and, in the process, vacated a well-maintained house ready for a young family.

However, many people our age and older cling on to their family home, maybe because there is not enough attractive housing for the over-55s.

I have a daughter and son-in-law who, with their three children, climb six flights of stairs to get to their flat, which they have occupied for 12 years. They both have jobs and they never owed a penny in rent.

The new bidding system has worked against them as they have often been beaten to the post by 'category one' applicants, many of whom have only waited a matter of weeks before being allocated a house.

Therefore, can I ask that elderly people or their families consider the fact that life can be easier, cheaper and more secure if they give up their house for a young family? My husband and I have never looked back and wonder why more elderly people don't consider this option.

Jennie Thatcher
Morris House, Harlow

Where's our council?

SIR, I notice that Harlow Council is not listed as a main participant in the forthcoming second Stansted runway public inquiry. Yet both Uttlesford and East Herts district councils are, together with Essex and Hertfordshire county councils, all being jointly represented.

Will a councillor, rather than a council spokesman, please tell us why Harlow Council has not joined with the four others when such a massive proposal will affect our lives in so many detrimental ways?

The new sports complex now being built and due to open next year will be directly in line with the proposed runway, as will Hatfield Forest which is the responsibility of the National Trust, also a main participant at the inquiry.

I am aware most flights will arrive or leave from the north end but it is obvious the whole objective of

Are we going to pay for slump in recycling?

SIR, Harlow Council seems to be steaming full speed ahead into the wreckage that was once a very profitable business of recycling.

Since September, and because of the recession, the economic downturn has brought a slump in demand from manufacturers. Materials such as mixed plastics which were fetching £200 a tonne as recently as three months ago are now virtually worthless!

A report states that local government chiefs are now looking to hold the recycled rubbish in secure areas for six months or more in the hope that prices will pick up again.

It means that council tax payers will face new bills for storing old cans, plastic, cardboard, paper and other carefully sorted rubbish in warehouses, on top of the cost of the recycling schemes themselves.

The figures on the extent of rubbish mountains were released by the Local Government Association, the umbrella body for English councils.

Conservative local government spokesman Eric Pickles said: "The only thing Labour recycles is old news. This not only shatters the Government's green credentials but it will also fuel the exploding rat population".

Harlow's Tory-controlled council appears oblivious to all this latest information. They are determined to continue with their policy of spending something in the region of £3m-£3.5m on wheelie bins when the likelihood of any return for their money is remote.

This council is covering both eyes and ears but it is our money they are wasting. Will they be prepared to walk the plank when their scheme fails?

Poor communication

SIR, I am writing with reference to the letter "PAH shortcomings" (Star, November 27) and am in complete agreement with the author.

My mother has been discharged from PAH just this week and I, too, feel extremely despondent about the way in which she was treated. I felt at times they considered mum to have dementia (which she doesn't) and as the overall communication was very poor, to say the least, I feel that perhaps they thought that of her relatives too.

When it came to her being discharged it went from days of 'will she, won't she?' to the actual day when she was virtually turned out into the car park.

Whilst mum was in hospital she kept saying that she could write a book on her experiences. I have to say that if she were to do so it would make for very interesting reading indeed.

Christmas cheers

SIR, I would like to thank everyone involved in making this year's switch-on of the Christmas lights in Harlow the success it was.

Without sponsorship and backing from Harlow Council, Essex County Council, GlaxoSmithKline, Kier Harlow, Pitney Bowes, Harlow Town Football Club, Harlow police and over two dozen local retailers and cafes/restaurants, as well as the full support of the Town Centre Partnership board itself, we would not have been able to increase the number of lights in the Town Centre by 80 per cent, all of which are new low-energy lights.

Nor would we have been able to put on such a wide range of events, with six local groups, three angels, two stages, two reindeer, one fairground organ, Punch & Judy, fireworks, snow and all the rest.

Most of all, I'd like to thank all the people of Harlow and the surrounding area who came into the town centre on the day to enjoy themselves and who continue to show their support for the town and its many excellent shops.

Charmless driver

SIR, I couldn't agree more with John Wilson (Letters, November 27). I had to stop sharply when a woman who had been parking on the yellow lines (an offence in itself) outside Harlow Town station pulled out in front of me.

She obviously hadn't seen me and, when I tooted, she stuck two fingers up. Charming!

Space lost by inches

SIR, As a follow-up to your report about the relocation of Lister House health centre to a public green space (Star, November 27), I think I may have a cunning plan to help the generals at the Civic Centre realise their ambition to sell off more of our town's treasure.

Why not copy the redevelopments of Keats House, Addison House, Nuffield House and Sydenham House by building a bigger Lister House medical centre on its existing site to achieve the additional accommodation needed?

As no provision for parking by patients has been made at those other expansions, there would be no compulsion for the Health Centres Trust to plan for parking space for patients at Staple Tye, which has a large privately owned car park. The centres already developed are also all adjacent to road junctions.

Then the Abercrombie Way recreation land released by the council for development could be filled up with several large blocks of undersized flats.

By the time the Star next appears, another public recreation space will have been removed, to be covered over by a replacement Osler House health centre and replacement community centre at Potter Street.

As some councillors mentioned at the planning committee of November 25 - so what, it's only another few per cent of open space. Then another few per cent and then another few per cent ...

Not so healthy

SIR, With regard to your report on the new health centre off Abercrombie Way, it looks like we are going to lose more green space, increasing Harlow's carbon footprint with the loss of all the surrounding trees and shrubs.

Surely it is better to play tennis in the fresh air as apposed to in a stuffy gym? Also, people complain that young people have nowhere to go – now this will leave them even fewer places to go.

If this development is allowed to go ahead, why not just turn Harlow into a concrete jungle?

B. Hood
Brockles Mead, Harlow

Thin end of wedge

SIR, At Harlow Council's planning committee on November 25, I witnessed the abject surrender of our council to the pressure from Government via its local agent when a majority of the committee voted to accept a planning application to build a new health centre on one of the town's green wedges.

Our green edges enjoy the protection of the Adopted Replacement Harlow Local Plan, a document that these councillors voted for and a document that should ensure that the uniqueness of the Harlow landscape is properly safeguarded from inappropriate development.

This decision by spineless councillors, with one notable exception, could have far-reaching consequences for all of our cherished green spaces that make Harlow so special, not just the small area in question which, according to some members of the committee, is just a scrubby area of little importance.

This dysfunctional and piecemeal method of planning the future of Harlow, if allowed to continue, will result in the dismantling of the Master Plan for Harlow by degrees.

This must be resisted at all stages so that we are not left at the mercy of the planning committee.

John Curry
Old Orchard, Harlow

Speed limit is a start

SIR, In response to John Wilson (Letters, November 27), yes, I do think speed limits make a difference.

I travelled all over Essex for work and, unfortunately, did often drive too fast. However, as more and more speed limits appeared on our roads, I did keep my speed down, and many other drivers do the same.

Speed limits are a necessary reminder to motorists. At present, driving out of Harlow Business Park towards Roydon, there is a 40 mph speed limit. Then, just before a dangerous corner and the hamlet of East End, motorists are advised that up to 60 mph is an acceptable speed. This is crazy!

I agree with John Wilson that speed limits do not deter the most inconsiderate and dangerous of drivers, but they are a necessary first step.

Sally Naylor, chairwoman
East End Roydon Road Residents' Association
Roydon Road, Harlow

Just take the test

SIR, I do not understand why any Hackney Carriage driver should be exempt from the random drug test (Star, November 27).

It happens in the armed forces, police and other establishments. The drivers are taking the lives of members of the public in their hands the moment they get in the vehicle.

Why should there be a loss of earnings and a financial burden on council civil servants? Have they never heard of duty of care?

I see no discrimination on this health and safety issue. I believe it is paramount they take the test, and they should be more than happy to show customers who use the service they are, in actual fact, in safe hands.

There are all types taking drugs and driving under the influence these days. No-one should be exempt whatsoever – even council civil servants should have it done. I would be more than glad to have it done at any time.

The driving of some drivers is not the greatest on most days, breaking the Highway Code laws, going through red lights, speeding, taling on mobile phones, not wearing seat belts – all this for a few extra pence without regard to the potential loss of life. They should stop whining and take the test.

I do use the service and would like to know I am in safe hands.

Assaults on staff at PAH down again

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE number of assaults on staff at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital has dropped for the second consecutive year, according to new statistics.

Figures for 2007/8 released by the hospital trust show there were 25 reported incidents of violence against staff.

Nine of these incidents were subsequently reported to police – compared to the 12 reported two years ago – but none were considered serious enough for charges to be brought against the individuals involved.

Where assaults were not reported to police, offenders were interviewed by hospital security management specialist Lynn Court or one of her team and issued with 'behaviour contracts' reminding them of hospital rules concerning behaviour while on-site.

Ms Court said: "We have been making great efforts to protect staff from both physical and verbal assaults and urge them to report any and every incident. "We have certainly seen an improvement since the police began patrolling key areas such as accident and emergency. "We would emphasise that we continue a zero-tolerance towards verbal and physical assaults on our staff and will use the full power of the courts to prosecute individuals."

Crunch time for job threat staff

SCORES of jobs could be at risk after two of Harlow's biggest high street retailers were put into administration.

giant MFI, which has a store at the Prince's Gate Retail Park off Edinburgh Way, could have to wait until the New Year before they find out if their jobs are safe.

MFI is currently opening only to sell off showroom stock, with all deliveries and installations suspended while administrators MCR review the company's position.

Customers who have paid for goods by credit card should be able to get refunds from their card provider, but those who paid by cash or debit card may not be so fortunate.

A statement on the firm's website said: "It remains the intention of the company's management to see all cash, cheque or debit card depositors whose orders are not fulfilled be refunded. The administrators are currently reviewing this position to determine whether this will be possible."

Woolworths' administrators Deloitte said the Harlow store would remain open until after Christmas and promised all 38 employees would continue to be paid, although store deliveries of new stock have been put on hold.

Dan Butters, reorganisation services partner at Deloitte, added: "We will be looking for a suitable buyer for all parts of the business."

"We are working hard to ensure that any sale of the business, in whole or in part, will preserve jobs."

The retail arm of Woolworths operates out of 800 high street stores and four distribution centres, employing 25,000 staff across the UK.

Brothers deny manslaughter of boatman in drunken brawl behaviour of the two men was such that a complaint was made."

The jury heard Andrew Liddard verbally abused the woman who had complained, shouting: "You look like you've been taking drugs all your life, you slapper" and "Are you going to believe this northern slag over me?"

He called the captain of the boat "gay" and offered to fight him on the jetty, adding "I don't give a * about the police" and threatening "I'll *ing have you and kill your family."

A friend of the brothers persuaded them to leave but moments later Christopher Liddard ran back and threw a punch at the captain's head, the court heard.

Mr Reed went to help as Andrew Liddard joined in, shouting: "That's it, you've hit my brother. I'll *ing kill you."

He aimed a punch at the captain but missed and the blow struck Mr Reed on the cheek, it is claimed. The rest of the crew then restrained the pair.

Two passengers filmed the struggle with their camcorders as Andrew Liddard could be heard "growling" threats while being restrained. One video captured Mr Reed holding a cloth to a cut on his cheek before collapsing on the floor from a heart attack.

Family members of the victim left the public gallery in tears as the film was shown to the jury.

"For Michael Reed the violence had proved too much," said Mr Dennis. "Within a few minutes he began to feel ill and unstable."

"He sat down on some steps and, before anyone could do anything for him, he suffered a heart attack. Notwithstanding the efforts of many, he died in hospital within the hour."

One witness said Andrew Liddard was "frothing in the mouth" as he tried to bite those holding him down, the court heard.

Mr Dennis said: "The behaviour of both brothers would appear to have been out of character, no doubt due to the excessive amount of alcohol that day."

Both subsequently told police they were acting in self-defence.

After he was taken to Bethnal Green police station, Andrew Liddard allegedly said: "It was my fault. I was the one who started it. I said some horrible things. I didn't mean any of them. Sometimes I wish I didn't act such a dick when I have a beer."

When told of Mr Reed's death, he became upset and emotional.

The trial continues

Junk Boutique is far from rubbish

BUDDING young entrepreneurs set up stall in the Harvey Centre on Thursday for a shoppers showdown as they battled it out for retail success.

The youngsters aged 15-19 were taking part in Young Enterprise East of England's Company Programme, in which participants get hands-on experience of setting up and running their own company.

After electing a board of directors, raising share capital and marketing their products and services, the youngsters are then given the opportunity to take part in local trade fairs where they compete against their peers to make the biggest profits.

The overall winner of the competition was Junk Boutique, set up by pupils from Mark Hall School who were presented with a trophy and a cheque for £75 by Harlow councillors Simon Carter and Edna Stevens.

Knife attack killer given life sentence

GUILTY: Roland Balasko

A WAREHOUSE worker who stabbed a friend to death in a row over money has been jailed for life.

Roland Balasko, (28) of St Andrews Meadow, Harlow, was found guilty of murdering Zoltan Keszezy by a jury at Chelmsford Crown Court on Tuesday. When he was sentenced yesterday (Wednesday), Judge Christopher Ball said he should serve at least 19 years before being considered for parole.

During the trial the jury was told Mr Keszezy (29), of Risdens, Harlow, was stabbed 31 times during the attack which took place in St Andrew's Meadow on April 2.

Neighbours who were disturbed by noise from the incident at about 12.30am watched in horror as the attack which began at the exit of a nearby churchyard then moved into their street.

Balasko, who denied the charge of murder, later gave himself up to police after his bloodstained Seat Toledo was discovered in Watford near to where he previously lived.

Passing sentence, the judge told him: "You embarked on an absolutely vicious and merciless attack. When he was pleading for help you stabbed him at least 31 times and when he was motionless and lifeless you unceremoniously bundled him into a car and dumped him. 'You and you alone bear the terrible responsibility for the awful death you inflicted on Zoltan Keszezy.'"

Charity looks at sites for a new hospice

A MULTI-million pound hospice could be built in Harlow after a charity announced it is working on plans for a purpose-built facility in the county.

Representatives of The J's Hospice Charity are currently trying to identify a suitable site for a 10-bed unit which would provide respite care for 18-40 year-olds with life-limiting illnesses.

This week it said Harlow was one possible location for the centre – which would be only the second of its kind in England – because of its good amenities and road links.

The news comes after the charity confirmed that it had looked into buying land in Epping.

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor

sassoonl@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

Head of fundraising Nick Garner told the Star the fact town already had a hospice – St Clare at Hastingwood – would not be a disadvantage because the charity was looking to provide a service for younger people who are too old for children's hospices as well as some adults.

"Harlow is a good area because of the M11 and its road links," he said. "We have already looked at a site in Epping but that didn't come through. We have got people out there in the county coming up with locations for us at the moment."

The charity, which was formed in 2004, has already raised the cash to buy a plot of land. It will decide in the next few months on a location in order to be able to begin the planning process.

It aims to raise a further £5m to build and furnish the hospice.

One couple who have welcomed the news are Steve and Adrienne Church, from Matching Green, who have been looking for more than a year for a hospice for their son Alex (20) who has severe cerebral palsy.

They said the possibility of having such a centre on their doorstep would be invaluable.

Mrs Church, who recently raised more than £8,000 to go towards the building of the unit in a charity golf event at North Weald's Blakes Golf Club, said: "There is only one hospice for that age in the country and that's in Oxford. There is nowhere else; they fall into a big black hole."

Voting under way for youth council

TIME is running out for Harlow's young people to vote for the candidates they want to represent them on the town's youth council.

Polling stations in secondary schools across the town have been busy since Monday as students have their say in the election process before tomorrow's deadline.

Those who have not yet cast a vote have until Saturday as ballot boxes have been placed in the library, Civic Centre and selected shops.

The 24 candidates standing for election will find out if their campaigning has paid dividends when the results are announced on Wednesday. Only 12 will join the existing 12 councillors to represent the views of the town's 11-19 year-olds.

Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson said: "The youth council has become a powerful forum for young people and it will continue to have an important say in what happens in our town."

Pop fans to get Christmas treat

POP music fans have been given an early Christmas present with the announcement that there will be a festive Top of the Pops this year after all.

Until the popular programme was axed from the television schedules two years ago it was THE show to watch if you wanted to see your favourite bands perform and find out who was topping the singles charts.

The BBC initially said a Christmas edition of the show would still be screened but earlier this year it appeared that too would be scrapped.

But following complaints from angry pop stars who called for the one-off show to appear on our screens, TV chiefs caved in and agreed to reinstate it.

As a result there will now be two special editions of the show – a Top of the Pops Christmas special and a Top of the Pops New Year's Eve special. Both will be presented by Radio 1's chart show presenters Fearn Cotton and Reggie Yates, who said they were "beyond excited" about it all.

Fearn added: "Reggie and I feel truly honoured to be able to introduce this year's number one; both shows are going to be huge!"

A couple of weeks ago X Factor judge Simon Cowell said he wanted to buy the rights to the show from the BBC and transfer it to ITV. But the BBC told him the show was not up for sale and confirmed it will not be returning for a regular series.

"This does not signal the return of Top of the Pops," a spokesman said.

End-of-year sale to help kickstart property market

A LOCAL estate agent is taking part in a three-day end of year property sale in a bid to kickstart the housing market.

Bairstow Eves, in High Street, Old Harlow, is part of the Countrywide network which is hosting the sales event, the first of its kind to be co-ordinated across 1,000 branches.

Properties include a range of modern and traditional apartments, terraced, semi-detached and detached family homes. All will be available at discounted prices.

The aim is to boost the local housing market by helping more people access and move up the property ladder.

Managing director Vernon Harris said: "This is a window of opportunity for first-time buyers, families, landlords and investors. It is a golden opportunity to help sellers tie up their house sales before Christmas and will attract buyers from across the region."

"Buyers have a chance to buy a beautiful home at a reduced price. The timing of the event is crucial as many homeowners would like to sell by the end of the year."

The sale takes place from December 11-13 at Bairstow Eves' offices in Brentwood and Stratford. Experienced staff from across its network will be available to provide specialist advice free of charge in support of the event. Interested buyers will then be able to arrange viewings on any of the many homes available

Additionally, potential buyers can speak, free of charge, to a qualified mortgage consultant with access to a wide range of products and lenders. There will also be experts from lettings and property management on hand.

For more information, contact Bairstow Eves on (01279) 626117.

Burglar owns up to one-man crimewave

New shop takes town centre by storm

FANS of Star Wars turned out in force when they got the chance to have a good Luke round a new shop selling comic books and collectables.

Four stormtroopers from the blockbuster film series dropped in when Three Darths Comics and Collectables opened its doors in Little Walk for the first time on Saturday. Owner Nick Roach, pictured above, who ran a similar store in Harlow Business Park, said he moved to the town centre to bring something new to shoppers.

"It has been met with a good response," he said. "I think most people think it is a breath of fresh air."

A CONVICTED criminal serving two years in prison for assault faces another year behind bars after admitting a string of burglaries in Harlow and Roydon.

Trevor Copeland (36) was originally given a two-year jail term back in August but has since given police details of another 75 crimes he has committed across the district.

Chelmsford Crown Court was told on Thursday how officers drove Copeland around the area so he could point out the homes he had burgled, allowing police to clear up scores of unsolved crimes including thefts of phones, stereo equipment and satellite navigation systems from homes in Harlow.

Copeland, from Romford, pleaded guilty to three burglaries and four thefts but asked for 69 other offences to be taken into consideration. He was given a further three-year sentence to run concurrent with his existing jail term.

Ordering that the new sentence should begin immediately, Judge David Turner told Copeland: "The amount of misery for people represented by the seven charges and 69 TICs defies belief."

"I don't think you could have thought about the unhappiness and anxiety caused by burgling people's homes and stealing from their cars."

The court was told that Copeland, a former heroin and crack addict, wanted to make a clean breast of what he had done.

Prosecutor Richard Stevens said that when he was sentenced in August he asked for a number of other matters to be dealt with and in September provided police with large amounts of information.

Edward Culver, representing Copeland, said his client was expecting a custodial sentence but had shown insight and wanted to take the opportunity to rehabilitate himself within the prison system.

Pair face jail for vigilante attack

Oasis of therapeutic calm

A STRESS-busting evening proved popular with people keen to try alternative therapies in a bid to reduce their blood pressure.

Holistic therapist Victoria Robertson and colleagues organised the event at Harlow Town FC's Barrows Farm stadium.

Treatments included hot stone massages, Thai foot massages, reflexology, Indian head massages, Reiki, hand rejuvenating techniques and makeovers.

Visionary artist Tony Pinford provided projection meditation throughout the evening while duo Cling played soothing music to calm the guests.

The event was such a success that Victoria has organised more evening stress-busting clinics in the future. She runs her walk-in clinic at the football club from 2-6pm on Fridays.

TWO men convicted of breaking the jaw of a young man with a mental age of a child in what was described as a "vigilante" attack have been warned by a judge to expect a lengthy custodial sentence.

Judge Anthony Goldstaub told David Townsend (19), of Spinning Wheel Mead, Harlow, and Daniel Moore, (19), of Chelmsford, it was inevitable they would lose their freedom.

The pair were convicted of causing grievous bodily harm to Kelvin Ward during an attack in Admirals Park, Chelmsford, on December 29 last year.

On Monday the judge remanded both men in custody for reports and will sentence them on January 5.

Peter Clark, prosecuting at Chelmsford Crown Court, told the jury the victim had severe learning difficulties which resulted in him having the intellectual capacity expected of a child of 5-6 years of age.

He said that, after arriving at the park, Mr Ward was attacked almost immediately. He was knocked to the floor and subjected to a sustained and vicious assault, including kicks to the head while on the ground. He was left covered in blood and suffered a broken jaw.

Mr Clark said the defendants spoke some words to Mr Ward along the lines of 'you've done something,' to which he asked what he was supposed to have done.

It was suggested by Moore that Mr Ward had admitted performing a sexual act on a young boy.

Mr Clark told the court: "On 19 February 2007 Kelvin was formally cautioned by police in relation to an allegation of sexually touching a 10-year-old boy. If this was a vigilante-style attack there was no excuse for it."

Both Townsend and Moore, who denied the charge of assault, claimed during the trial that the other had carried out the attack.

New tastes in the New Town

CHINESE restaurants are now 10 a penny in Harlow but just a few years ago it was a very different story.

The first 'proper' Oriental sit-down experience to be introduced to the town came in the form of Sang Wah, which was owned by a Mr Mann who came to Britain from Hong Kong in 1953 to work with his uncle at a restaurant in London. He soon took the opportunity to run his own business shortly after the New Town was built, but the food wasn't what you might expect as the menu featured only one traditional dish.

Claire Hooper, education officer at The Museum of Harlow, in Muskham Road, interviewed Mr

By LOUISE SASSOON

Mann a few years ago about the opening of his restaurant and supplied Nostalgia with the details. "In 1960, the Harlow Development Corporation was looking for a restaurant to set up in the newly built town centre. One of his (Mr Mann's) customers in London was Mr Childs, the estate officer for Harlow New Town. He suggested to Mr Mann that he might like to set up business in Harlow," she said. Mrs Hooper said that soon after, Mr Childs gave Mr Mann a tour of the partially built town centre to look for possible sites for the 150-seat vision he had. As there wasn't a suitable large enough building, it was decided the restaurant would be set up in West Square, an area that was not built at the time.

This meant there was a two-year wait while the building was completed, but also allowed him to influence the design and ensure it was exactly as he wanted.

The Sang Wah opened in 1962, with the restaurant on the ground floor and a solicitors' office and hair salon on the upper floors.

It was the first proper restaurant in the New Town and was open for lunch trade from the offices and shops and then again in the evening. The lunch menu for 1964 featured three courses for 4s 6d and included apple pie and omelette. Much of the lunchtime trade used Luncheon Vouchers.

Harlow's rocking family tree

DEVIANT Amps frontman Paul Woodwright, pictured right, has contacted Nostalgia to request correspondents' help to draw up a history of Harlow's bands.

He writes: "Richard Holgarth and the rest at The Square asked me help set up their web site and at one of our meetings they took a shine to having an archive page and asked me to see what could be done.

"I sat down one day and started jotting all the bands I could remember and as I did this I remembered the old Pete Frame rock family trees he used to do for the old, now-defunct Sounds magazine.

"We all went for this idea and here we are, about five months on now. The tree covers Harlow-based bands from around 1977 to the present, with about 170 bands and their various line-ups.

"Basically, I am very near complete with the main artwork bar three names. They are the drummer from Alexis (c.1980), I believe it was Paul but don't know the surname; a lady called Claire who played trombone with Johnny Get Angry; and the bass player for Risque.

"I am still interested in hearing from any Harlow-based bands from the above dates but would like especially like to contact Clive Brown – singer for Underdog, OPM and Sweeney Todd – and John McConnachie, singer for Sweat Band and Burlesque." If anyone can help Paul, please contact him at squarearchive@btinternet.com or write via Nostalgia.

LABOUR PARTY CONDEMNS MUSIC SCHOOL CLOSURE

Harlow Labour Party has condemned Essex County Council's proposal to close the town's music school. The party has called on county councillors to oppose proposals at all stages and has demanded that the education authority call public meetings to explain the proposals early in the new term.

COMPUTER BOOM

It was a computer-age Christmas in Harlow this year, with the latest games for children and adults selling like hot cakes. Two computer outlets, British Homes Stores and Computer Software Centre at Slacksbury hatch, reported bumper sales.

BROTHERS JAILED

Two Harlow men chatting and joking outside a Harlow pub were set on by two brothers, Chelmsford Crown Court heard. One of the victims was stabbed six or seven times and spent two days in hospital. The men were sentenced to five and two years after admitting causing wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm and actual bodily harm, respectively.

THE Star this week throws its weight behind an appeal for help by a Harlow homeless charity which is fighting a financial battle to stay open.

Streets2Homes is the only service in town which opens its doors to the homeless and vulnerable for six days a week, 50 weeks of the year. It provides tents, sleeping bags, food, clothing and friendship to those most in need.

It also runs a valuable rent deposit scheme to assist those in need of accommodation who the council do not have to house. And it is constantly striving to help those who come to it to turn their lives around and find permanent accommodation.

However, it is facing a month-to-month fight to stay open because it relies heavily on fundraising events and donations to generate its estimated £34,000 a year running costs.

Patsy Dye, manager of the Wych Elm service, said: "We very rarely get donations because we seem to be at the bottom of the pile when it comes to that and it's only this time of year people start thinking about it. We have a few dedicated donors and we are thankful for that, but we would like more support."

The charity came about with the merger of Harlow Accommodation Project and Harlow Homeless Centre and is staffed by a group of 18 volunteers who work tirelessly to offer support and advice.

Currently, the charity's television is switched off because the aerial is broken and its limited funds have already been accounted for to be spent elsewhere.

We need Star readers to help the homeless

Speaking about the charity's importance, Mrs Dye thanked all those who consistently give support – Sainsbury's, Church Langley church, Harlow Tye Rotary Club, the Salvation Army and all the schools who collected and donated harvest festival gifts – and she said it is of the utmost importance it stays open. "It is not a life you chose, it is a life you are driven to because of circumstances," she said. "The homeless are hounded out by having their tents slashed, having their few possessions destroyed and their clothing deliberately thrown into ditches – this behaviour is not down to youngsters, it is down to people who just want to move them on.

"Homelessness is about hunger pains that leave you feeling weak, dizzy, disorientated; you will suffer loss of dignity because you are unable to wash yourself, loss of pride because all too often people remind you that you have no belonging in the community."

She added: "I will never forget something a homeless person said to me – 'the hardest thing of all is walking past houses hearing the laughter of children and the hustle and bustle of family life.'"

"The public need to acknowledge that because you cannot cope with life it does not mean that makes you a threat to anyone else's happiness. We need to remember that homeless people need a shelter to enable them to rebuild their lives, giving them the dignity and respect they strive for.

"We need to ensure that Streets2Homes is able to continue offering a valuable service to the homeless.

"Please help us to continue the valuable services that Streets2Homes offer with cash donations, which can be delivered to the centre or the Star's office in West Gate. Every penny helps, no matter how small the donation. We are also in need of tents, sleeping bags, toiletries, saucepans and clothing."

Business briefing on surviving recession

A RECESSION-busting meeting is to be held in Harlow to protect firms in the town from ending up as victims of current economic downturn.

The Essex Federation of Small Businesses is joining forces with four other organisations to give advice to companies on how they can stay afloat at a free business briefing next Tuesday.

Iain Wicks, chairman of the Essex region of the FSB, said: "In the current economic climate, businesses need to look carefully at their costs and the way they operate so they can survive and be ready to thrive when improvements occur."

Guest speakers will advise bosses how to reduce the cost of insurance cover, make efficiency improvements and address emergency planning and health and safety issues without it costing a fortune.

The meeting, which includes a buffet supper, will be held at Harlow Civic Centre from 6-8pm. To book a place log onto the FSB website at www.fsb.org.uk/Essex and then click on 'events'.

Newhall starter homes win industry accolade

AN award-winning housing development in Harlow has scooped another accolade, this time for its starter homes.

North Chase, at Newhall, was awarded bronze in the Best Starter Home category of the What House Awards, billed as the industry's version of the Oscars.

Jon Moen, of Newhall Projects Ltd, said: "We strive to achieve the highest possible standards in every aspect of construction at Newhall and we see imaginative architecture as vitally important to the future of the neighbourhood and the inspiration and well being of its residents."

"It is also great to have had further recognition of the ingenious designs currently being created in North Chase."

Mandelson to open 'the Hub'

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor
sassoonl@hertssexnews.co.uk

A BUSINESS centre designed to help Harlow's small firms flourish is due to be opened by Lord Peter Mandelson today (Thursday).

The Harlow Enterprise Hub is the first of its kind in the town to offer small and embryonic firms office space as well as business advice and support.

It represents a huge step towards protecting the town's economic base and comes at a time when some companies in the area have fallen victim to the global recession.

The centre was built in part with the help of a £10m Growth Area Fund grant from the Government as well as £3m secured by Harlow Council from the East of England Development Agency. The project, which has been managed by Harlow Renai-sance, has transformed the 1960s Great Eastern House in Edinburgh Way.

Speaking before tonight's opening ceremony Lord Mandelson, Minister of State for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, said: "Small businesses are the lifeblood of the UK economy. We have to do everything we can to help them through the current global economic downturn and emerge from it stronger."

"Of course central Government has a role to play, but local action up and down

GOOD LORD: Labour peer Peter Mandelson, below right, will be in town tonight (Thursday) to open the Harlow Enterprise Hub, above this country is also crucial. That's why I'm looking forward to visiting Harlow and seeing the new Enterprise Hub which should really help to promote entrepreneurship and innovation in the town."

The 55-unit centre will create and develop new and young businesses as well as assist in their growth and sustainability. It will play a crucial role in expanding the town's small business base by creating more jobs and bringing stability to the local economy.

Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson said he was delighted with the new centre.

"It's especially important in this difficult climate that small and growing companies have good quality, affordable units to rent," he said.

"Harlow Council is pleased to support local business in any way that it can and this centre is a big step forward."

Hospital's new milk kitchen to give advice on bottle feeding

A NEW milk kitchen is being opened in the maternity unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital in a bid to cut down on potentially dangerous bottle feeding mistakes.

The new facility, which comes into service early next month, will allow staff to teach mums and dads the correct way to make up formula milk for their babies.

Chris Argent, the unit's feeding adviser, said: "Although we have always encouraged mothers to breast feed – and have been recognised nationally for doing so – some women still prefer to bottle feed their babies and we need to support them."

"The milk kitchen will enable us to give parents information about the right way to do this. They are shown how to sterilise equipment and learn about general hygiene practices and also find out the best way to store milk and how to safely prepare it."

The information provided is based upon new advice from the Department of Health and the Food Standards Agency.

Common mistakes include putting the formula rather than the water in first and adding extra scoops of formula in the hope that it will make baby sleep better.

The milk kitchen comprises a sink for hand washing, sink for washing equipment, fridges, kettles and sterilising equipment.

Passmores an outstanding success

PASSMORES: Staff have been celebrating this week after Government watchdogs rated the school 'outstanding'.

Ofsted inspectors gave the glowing report following an inspection of the Tendring Road secondary in which they said it had made good progress because of its willingness to encourage hard work and its exceptional standards of teaching.

They also praised the school for having a well-designed curriculum and its preparation of students for life beyond the school corridors.

However, its attendance was shown to be slightly below par as 'satisfactory' rather than 'good' – something the school is continuing to address. Despite that, inspectors rated it 'outstanding' in five key areas and 'good' in the remaining three.

Headteacher Vic Goddard said: "To receive the highest inspection grade is fantastic and the reward for all of the hard work over recent years. I have known for a very long time that the students and staff of Passmores are 'outstanding' but it is still nice to hear that a group of people that spend their lives inspecting schools think so too."

Schools quids-in thanks to Harvey

THERE was reason for celebration at KATHERINES PRIMARY and ST JAMES' when each school was handed a cheque courtesy of a Harlow shopping centre.

The schools, in Brookside and Paringdon Road respectively, won the money after entering the Harvey Centre's Quids For Kids initiative in which they exchanged till receipts for cash.

Fifteen schools took part in the scheme and the two schools bagged £2,500 between them, £1,500 of which was awarded to scheme winner St James'. The money will be used to pay for new play equipment and facilities. Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said: "We were pleased with how the scheme turned out as it is always pleasing to find local schools or communities to support. Both schools we visited were terrific examples of teachers and children working hard and having fun."

BUDDING entrepreneurs got into the festive spirit and tasted success when they sold their wares at a Christmas fair.

Nine students from MARK HALL formed the business 'Just Perfect' as part of an A-level project in which they were tasked with selling produce and organising an event. They made unique gift hampers and confectionary packages and re-marketed the normal annual fair at the Tripton Road school to increase its success.

Natalie Linden, of Just Perfect, said: "Just Perfect all pulled together to plan this event and it was a huge success, with over 200 people coming to support the event."

Fairytale ending for Burnt Mill's Christmas cast

REVIEW

THE NIGHTMARE BEFORE CHRISTMAS
Burnt Mill School, Harlow

BURNT Mill Performing Arts School put any nightmares to rest when they took inspiration from Tim Burton's Christmas film and made it their own.

Gothic fairytale The Nightmare Before Christmas tells the story of Jack Skellington, the Pumpkin King of Halloween Town who finds a portal to Christmas Town and sets about combining the two holidays, a scheme which goes horribly wrong.

The opening scene sprung to life with an entertaining mix of dance, drama and singing with the characters making use of all the space and entrances. The energy was catching as the youngsters seemed to perform on a high, hardly putting a foot wrong.

The audience didn't know where to look as the stage was filled with colourful and eye-catching characters and props.

One of those taking part was Budd Birkett (15), whose performance as Mayor of Halloween was very convincing. "I was ecstatic about the way that it turned out," he said afterwards. "I was buzzing when I came off stage, there is not another feeling like it!"

Show director Jeanne Stacey, part of Phoenix Theatre Group which is now based at Burnt Mill, said: "When we did auditions we weren't just looking for who was the best at singing and acting but who gave the best overall performance and had the best characterisation. "The schoolchildren were almost unrecognisable in a flurry of make-up and costume, relishing in the chance to dress up."

The youngsters should be very proud of themselves for an almost flawless performance which proved once again that Burnt Mill shows are more than just the average school production.

Insight into the work of Harlow's designer

MODEL TOWN: Kelly Lean and councillor Simon Carter at the exhibition

(photo: ZJQGG3SX/01)

By CHRIS MOSS

AN exhibition of rarely seen architectural photographs, drawings and models documenting the pioneering work of Harlow town masterplanner Sir Frederick Gibberd is now on display in the town's Civic Centre.

Hosted by the Gibberd Gallery, the free Designed In Harlow exhibition will showcase work undertaken by the brilliant architect and staff at his Harlow office, which was opened in 1956 after he moved to the town.

Along with designs for many of Harlow's landmark buildings – including the now-demolished Town Hall – the gallery will have plans for the 12-year redevelopment of the old town on display.

And although his name may now be synonymous with Harlow, Sir Frederick's work in designing notable buildings elsewhere in the UK will be well-represented, with plans and sketches of Bath Technical College and shopping centres in Colchester and Banbury also on show.

Arranged to coincide with Sir Frederick's centenary year, the exhibition is the first time the work has been put on public display and also illustrates some of the work undertaken in the architect's London office from material discovered in the archives of the Gibberd Garden.

Harlow Council arts development officer Kelly Lean said: "The exhibition gives a fascinating insight into his work designing well known past and present buildings in Harlow and other areas across the country."

Alex and friends find a wild time out in Africa

BUCKLE your seatbelt for more animal magic in this colourful computer animated sequel which cheekily recycles the plot of The Lion King.

Eric Darnell and Tom McGrath's film strands its menagerie of Manhattan misfits in the wild, where they discover the courage to follow their hearts and to reclaim a birthright as king of the jungle.

Important lessons about loyalty to friends, individuality in the face of conformity and inter-species romance are hammered home, without any attempt at subtlety.

As in the first film, Sacha Baron Cohen merrily

MADAGASCAR: RETURN 2 AFRICA

certificate PG, running time 1h 29m steals every scene as crazy lemur King Julien, who enjoys the finer things in life when he's not shaking his furry booty to Reel 2 Reel's infectious dance anthem I Like To Move It, Move It.

Kids will squeal at the slapstick and bright colours, although parents and older audiences might have to search a bit harder for amusement.

Alex the lion (voiced by Ben Stiller), Marty the zebra (Chris Rock), Melman the hypochondriac giraffe (David Schwimmer) and Gloria the hippopotamus (Jada Pinkett Smith) are finally ready to leave the exotic island of Madagascar and return to the plush surroundings of New York's Central Park Zoo.

Boarding a rickety plane wreck fixed up by the crazy penguins, the animals crashland somewhat shy of their destination, ending up on the plains of Africa.

Madagascar: Escape 2 Africa starts promisingly with a flashback to Alex's abduction from the wild and the flight back to New York, but once the story moves to Africa the similarities to The Lion King are inescapable.

The quality of the animation is undeniable – the visuals are crisp and finely detailed, including animal hair that moves convincingly in the wind and lush, intricate backdrops.

TRANSPORTER 3

certificate 15, running time 1h 43m

JASON Statham returns to what he does best – taking his shirt off and beating bad guys to a pulp – in Olivier Megaton's brawny if brainless sequel.

Transporter 3 appropriates an eco-friendly central theme as a hook for all the usual fisticuffs and high-speed chases.

However, the filmmakers are more interested in orchestrating mayhem than saving the planet.

The miasma of kicks, punches and fracturing bones might be thrilling if it weren't so implausible.

His adversaries exhibit impeccable manners, attacking one at a time when surely it would be preferable to pig-pile him if they're actually serious about winning rather than just giving him a workout.

Frank Martin (Statham) burns rubber from sunny Marseilles, through Stuttgart and Budapest, and eventually on to Odessa on a job ordered by bad guy Johnson (Robert Knepper).

En route, Frank collects his package – Valentina (Natalya Rudakova), the kidnapped daughter of Leonid Vasilev (Jeroen Krabbe) who is head of the Ukraine's powerful Environmental Protection Agency.

Putting the pedal to the metal, Frank comes under fire from Vasilev's men and from Valentina, who doesn't take kindly to being manhandled.

Sparks of sexual attraction fly and Frank finds himself falling for the passionate woman in his care.

However, once he learns of Johnson's ulterior motives involving a cargo ship full of toxic waste, he risks everything to prevent Valentina falling into the villain's clutches.

sound check with Chris Moss

HOW do you like your punk rock, sir? Raw, acerbic and with a generous helping of bile? Vintage '77 style, maybe, with a splash of social commentary? Or do you prefer something a little more refined and soulful, with a soupcon of sharp-suited, roguish charm?

You may be wondering why I've used such a seemingly bizarre string of fine dining metaphors. To be honest, I wasn't sure where I was going with this either until I had an epiphany – if ever there was a gig to fully warrant description as a veritable feast of live music, this was it.

From the unchecked aggression and insane energy of The Hateul – one of the splendidly shouty side-projects of Brandon from The Seminals – to the sardonic working-class heroics of Steve Drewett's Newtown Neurotics, the evening was already shaping up to be one of the best the rejuvenated venue had hosted since July.

But then something spectacular happened – an unassuming Mancunian gent with a rather natty polka dot shirt bounded up onto the stage, plugged his guitar in and proceeded to play his bleedin' heart out.

Welcomed like a homecoming hero, Steve Diggle – the pied piper of punk – grabbed his audience by their ears, turned their heads inside out and planted the seeds of inspiration into the fertile minds of the unknowing future frontmen peppered throughout the throng.

Pulling more windmills than Pete Townshend in his prime and playing some raucous versions of Buzzcocks classics Autonomy and Harmony In My Head, his enduring reputation as the people's punk was never more deserved – kudos to The Square for bringing a true legend to Harlow.

CHANGELING Angelina Jolie makes a strong bid for an Oscar nomination with her tour de force portrayal of a crusading mother in Clint Eastwood's harrowing drama. Based on a shocking true story, Changeling tells the story of single mother Christine Collins (Jolie), who arrives home one day to find her son Walter has disappeared without trace. After months of fearing the worst, Captain JJ Jones of the LAPD claims to have found Walter. Unfortunately, it's a case of mistaken identity but in order to avoid a media maelstrom, Jones forces Christine to lie. Jolie is sensational as a woman on the verge of a nervous breakdown, who screams and shouts for justice, fearful she might not get the answers she craves.

Making it big is a wry waiting game

I SERVED THE KING OF ENGLAND
(Arrow Films, 15, retail)

For daring to seek whimsy amid the horrors of the Second World War, this charming 2006 Czech Republic film is most likely to find itself compared to Life Is Beautiful.

But whereas Roberto Benigni's soft-focus Oscar-bait squinted hard to avoid looking the Holocaust in the eye while accentuating the positive, writer/director Jiri Menzel makes no such compromises here as any moral myopia is largely restricted to his central character.

Diminutive trainee waiter Jan Dite (brilliantly played as a naïve youth by Ivan Barnev and as a wiser, pragmatic old man by Oldrich Kaiser) is learning his trade in a modest Prague bar but dreams of becoming a millionaire.

His boss instructs him "to hear nothing and yet hear everything, to see nothing and yet see everything" and it's advice he takes to heart as he elevates his social status via positions in a high class brothel and the city's finest hotel.

Along the way, his sweetly artless manner allows him several erotic interludes until he meets and marries Lise, a German girl completely taken in by the Nazi propaganda of manifest destiny and race purity.

It's here his talent for turning a blind eye comes in useful, as he outrages fellow Czechs by fraternising with the occupying enemy, works in a Nazi eugenics breeding centre and finally stands to become a millionaire thanks to the small fortune his beloved Rhine maiden has stolen from Europe's dispossessed Jews.

Jan might look away but Menzel doesn't, using paper cuts of mordant humour and dry observation to keep the viewer reminded of just how the loveable little waiter is making his way to the top, and at what cost.

Star rating: ★★★★★

LOTTE REINIGER: THE FAIRY TALE FILMS
(BFI, PG, retail)

As the creator of one of the world's first ever full-length animated features, it's a crying shame Lotte Reiniger isn't widely held in the same esteem as the likes of Walt Disney.

Starting her career in Germany and making The Adventures Of Prince Achmed over several years up to 1926, she moved to Britain in the 1930s where she joined the GPO Film Unit and, with husband Carl Koch, eventually made a series of enchanting animated films based on famous fairy tales.

This beautifully produced two-disc BFI set collects 19 of her films (predominantly made in 1954), including such delights as Aladdin And His Magic Lamp, The Frog Prince, Snow White And Rose Red, Cinderella, Puss In Boots, Thumbelina, Jack And The Beanstalk and The Little Chimney Sweep.

Simply told in gentle voice-over, these films showcase her distinctive flair for black and white shadow puppetry, using exquisitely detailed animated cut-outs which give the end result the rich resonance of timeless folk stories.

Extra features include the brief biographical short The Art Of Lotte Reiniger, Mike Figgis' selection and a glossy and informative 22-page booklet.

Star rating: ★★★★★

OASIS OF FEAR
(Shameless Screen Entertainment, 18, retail)

Director Umberto Lenzi is notorious for the excesses of such infamous 'video nasties' as Man From Deep River, Eaten Alive! and Cannibal Ferox but this stylish 1971 Italian thriller shows he was able to confidently turn his hand to any genre put his way.

From the outside, Oasis Of Fear might appear to be your standard giallo mix of pretty young things in peril, deranged murder sprees and groovy fashions, but its alternative title An Ideal Place To Kill is a more accurate pointer.

Sexually liberated counter-culture couple Dick (Ray Lovelock of The Living Dead At The Manchester Morgue) and Ingrid (the gorgeous Ornella Muti, who went on to play Ming 'The Merciless' saucer daughter in Flash Gordon) have a run-in with the police after attempting to fund their free-wheeling lifestyle by flogging Danish and home-made saucy snaps to an undercover cop.

Ordered out of Italy, they break down near a remote villa (the 'oasis' of the title) and are invited to stay by striking middle-aged occupant Barbara (Zorba The Greek's Irene Papas).

They get their alternative thing on with a spot of yoga, body double nudity and exotic Indian dancing until it looks as if the film's going to drift off into three-way saucy shenanigans, but Barbara has an entirely different agenda and begins to spin a web of deceit and incriminating evidence around her young guests as she sets them up to take the fall for a crime she's committed.

Exuding a dreamy erotic atmosphere one moment and cranking up the tension via sharp editing the next, Oasis Of Fear is full of unexpected twists and pleasures, not least of which are its cruel climax and a ridiculously infectious soundtrack of Euro bubblegum pop.

Hats off to Shameless for resurrecting yet another entertaining obscurity, incorporating previously lost footage into this 'rebuild' edit and adding an informative and irreverent text commentary track for good measure.

SPACE CHIMPS
(Entertainment In Video, U, retail & rental)

It makes you wonder whether critics are unrealistic enough to expect every animated family film to be in the same stellar league as Pixar, considering the generally disparaging response to Space Chimps.

Sure, it's no WALL-E with richly textured emotions and satisfying character arcs, but it's got monkeys in space and it's an amusing enough if undemanding way to spend 81 minutes.

When a probe is sucked into a wormhole, space agency chiefs don't want to risk human astronauts and so send a crew of chimps to check it out, snagging a few PR points along the way by drafting in Ham III, a circus performing ape and grandson of the first chimp in space.

After zipping through the wormhole and crash-landing on the planet Malgor, the three discover a tyrannical alien has already seized the original probe and is using it to enslave the rest of the population, leaving it up their ingenuity to restore the natural balance and cobble together a way to get back home.

a preview of what's on at the square this week

Karate are playing The Square as part of a short run of shows to mark the end of the band. Armdales play in support of their album Dog Hobbies. Headlining the show are a band whose identity is being kept a secret as they are not supposed to be playing live but who are performing a very special one-off show to celebrate the birthday of Billy Lunn from The Subways, who is a big fan. After the bands the Pressure Drop DJs return to keep the music coming until 3am. Admission is $5.

SATURDAY
The Jamm, The Culprits
After 14 years of being the only Jam tribute band worth bothering with, The Jamm will be calling it quits at the end of this year. They were last spotted in Harlow performing at The Town Show back in August. The ultimate mod revivalists, the message from The Jam still rings relevant today, making them one of Britain's most important bands. Support comes from Harlow punk 'n' rollers The Culprits. Tickets are $9 in advance from The Square, Tones or www.seetickets.com

SUNDAY
The Square's monthly comedy night returns with regular host John Mann. This month he presents Andrew Murrell, Rom Vaudry and Helmut. Admission is $5 and the show starts at 8pm.

Hosts prove too strong despite skills of Harlow

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

Havering 5, Harlow 3
(Essex Women's Hockey League, premier division)

A WEAKENED Harlow side played with skill at Havering but in the end were undone by a strong and uncompromising host team.

The visitors went behind after Havering scored from a quick break before they equalised through the returning Charlotte Byers, who finished smartly.

However, Harlow's attempts to play clean-passing hockey were thwarted by Havering, who were very quick and strong in their tackles.

Havering went ahead again when stand-in keeper Linda Rowley was given no chance against two home attackers. Harlow equalised against the run of play after the break.

Carolyn Rushton, who had earlier received a green card, netted from close range.

But Havering's strength and speed in the tackle disrupted the Harlow rhythm and they scored three more goals in quick succession.

Harlow scored as a Byers shot was turned in on the line by Anna Ferdinando.

Harlow will look to improve in the New Year when the league resumes.

HARLOW: Rowley, Green, Shearman, Price, Rushton, Tweddle, Steenekamp, Ferdinando, Hawes, Byers, Amos.

Danny proud to be among giant-killers

FORMER Hawks keeper Danny Naisbitt was thrilled to be part of the Histon team which made FA Cup giant-killing history when they beat League Two club Leeds United 1-0 on Sunday.

The 30-year-old, from Harlow, kept a clean sheet as the Blue Square Premier team booked a third round home tie against Swansea City.

Naisbitt, who played a few games for Harlow Town several years ago, said: "It was a massive achievement for the club, for the team, the fans and the supporters."

"The ground was full to capacity. They had two big chances and one hit the post while we had three or four sniffs. We scored a good goal. Gareth Gwillim's delivery was great and he made two crucial tackles. We gave 100 per cent."

He added: "It is massive when you consider Leeds were playing Champions League football seven or eight years ago. They are a big club."

The game was played in pouring rain and was broadcast to millions of viewers at home on ITV1.

Naisbitt, who runs a business helping professional footballers to find housing when they move clubs, felt the wet conditions were important.

"I hear that Leeds are a good passing team and it may have been different had it been dry."

"It is also a big result because of the financial restrictions at the club. They let go of Lance Key, the keeping coach."

Fine team effort is a big morale boost for Hawks

BASKETBALL

Southend Scorpions 79, Harlow Hawks 87

(National Founders Cup, East Region Group)

AN excellent team effort was instrumental in Harlow Hawks gaining a morale-boosting victory over Southend Scorpions.

Both teams traded baskets before a Dave Spashett three-pointer gave Hawks the lead.

The visitors led 21-17 going into the second quarter, which saw a strong Hawks start before Southend rallied with an 8-2 run to reduce the Hawks lead to a point.

However, the visitors enjoyed a 10-3 run to take a 45-35 lead into half-time.

Southend came back into it in the third quarter. Poor shooting and turnovers from Hawks in a four-minute period saw them gain one point before a late rally put them 60-56 ahead going into the final quarter.

A three-pointer by Freeman and a Jessop score extended Hawks' lead and the pair went on to score all but two of the Hawks subsequent points.

The teams then traded baskets and although Southend tried there was no way back for them.

HARLOW HAWKS: Jessop (32 pts), Freeman (22), Niaz (10), Haddow (10), Jones (10), Spashett (3), Collier, Allan.

Harlow takes solace in defensive efforts

THE extra quality of league leaders Old Southendians proved decisive as Harlow slipped to a heavy home defeat.

Saturday's trouncing saw Harlow go to the bottom as they were leapfrogged by Brentwood and Chelmsford, who drew and won respectively.

In freezing conditions, Harlow were put onto the back foot but their defence held firm.

Although Harlow had less possession than the visitors, when the team did manage to get the ball forward quickly, Chris Shearman-Slack and Rob Chandler caused the visitors' defence few problems.

Harlow's growing confidence was eventually their downfall. After an unsuccessful attack, Old Southendians caught Harlow off-guard and the forwards managed to get two on one with the helpless Carl Chandler in goal.

A quick second goal was added as the first defensive error of the match

Harlow 2, Old Southendians 5
(East Men's Hockey league, div three south-east)

was made by Harlow.

After the break, another two goals were scored by the Old Southendians, who kept piling on the pressure before Harlow managed to get a goal of their own.

Rob Chandler finished brilliantly after being played in by man-of-the-match Craig Cholerton, who went on to score Harlow's second after smashing a loose ball into the far corner of the goal.

Harlow kept pushing forwards, looking to get more opportunities of catching the opposition off-guard but conceded again with the last touch of the game from a short corner.

A Harlow club spokesman said: "The match had plenty of positives. Despite conceding five goals, it was probably the best defensive performance of the season."

Harlow have now conceded 50 goals in 10 matches.

Harlow take third in cross-country running

HARLOW Running Club finished third out of four in the first race of the Cross Country League.

The meeting at Ware on Sunday saw good individual performances from the women's team.

Dionne Jones came back from a fall early on to be the club's first finisher in 13th place, just ahead of Katie Herrington in 14th. Vicky Steadman finished 19th.

The men's team was led home by the indomitable Alan Broughton in 6th spot. He was followed home by Justin Revell (10th), Rick Ricketts (11th), Roy Steven (14th), Steve Mackenzie (16th), Jason Haigh (19th) and Grahame Thomas (32nd).

Hawks need about-face

THE Hawks hope to turn around their flagging campaign away at Sutton United this Saturday.

Harlow Town have picked up just one point from the last three games after their defeat at Tooting & Mitcham United five days ago.

A win in Surrey in two days will boost morale before their clash with league leaders Dover Athletic on Tuesday and they will be hoping defender Danny Chapman can shake off his thigh injury to play.

Harlow fell behind after 10 minutes at Imperial Fields. Matt York's free kick went in off the underside of the bar via striker Paul Vines, who netted five minutes later.

Unwell keeper James Hasell was beaten after Danny Green's attempted clearance rebounded off a Tooting player.

The Hawks halved the deficit through a 23rd minute Mark Taylor penalty, awarded for handball by Tooting's Aaron Goode.

Six minutes later, Hasell fouled Tooting's Zak Burke in the box but

Tooting & Mitcham United 4,

(Ryan League premier division)

York blazed the kick high and wide.

There was a lull until Tooting restored their lead on 68 minutes.

The ball was swung into the Harlow box, Hasell spilled it and Vines' shot wrong-footed the keeper and deflected off Hollenbach into the goal.

Hawks sub Tom Bruno bundled home Taylor's cross on 77 minutes.

Harlow conceded again in the first minute of injury time.

A home counter-attack resulted in Hasell's clearance going high instead of long before Sullivan was set up and he then shot past the retreating Harlow keeper.

HARLOW TOWN: Hasell, Taylor, Holding, Hollenbach, Kear, Kirby, Lalite, Gliddon (Bruno, 73), Richards, Bunn (Adeyinka 73), Green. Subs not used: Charles, Peagram, Tague.

Rams slump further into league mire

Norwich 14, Harlow 10

(London and South East Div three north east)

THE Rams must beat fellow strugglers Mersea Island at home this Saturday if they are not to be dragged further into the relegation mire.

Harlow's loss to bottom side Norwich five days ago leaves them second from the basement.

The Rams have lost fly-half Paul Humphries after he rejoined National League Two club Blackheath last week, but skipper Paul Eynon is confident James McFerran can do a good job at fly-half and hopes that his team can up their game for the Mersea clash.

Eynon said: "James has been playing well. He had done well there (at fly-half) before Paul left. We are lacking in confidence a bit and a win is what we need at the moment. We will be going for it and we hope it will be dry and that will enable us to play the game with pace."

The match at Norwich saw the hosts have three players sin-binned in the second half for two maul offences and killing the ball.

At one stage, Norwich went down to 13 while Harlow also had McFerran sent to the sidelines in the second period for killing the ball.

Harlow had their moments but Norwich went 9-0 up in the first 15 minutes through three penalties.

They stretched their lead on 20 minutes when a slick move led to a home winger running in an unconverted try.

However, the Rams exerted strong pressure towards the end of the first half and this was rewarded.

Player/coach Lee Harron broke well before setting up Chris Webb, who then beat the home full back to score under the posts. McFerran slotted the conversion and Harlow trailed 14-7 at the break.

The Rams could not make the numerical advantage count when Norwich players were yellow-carded in the second half.

McFerran, after returning from being sin-binned, kicked a 67th minute penalty but Harlow were unable to turn the game their way.

HARLOW: Banks, Woodington, Vanbeck, Powell, Webb, McFerran, Harron, Webb, Wilkins, Branch (Prindiville 50), Hawkins, Barnard (Paine 50), Roberts, Covington, Eynon.
